1950's Lowset Queenslander

Sitting on a 1012 sqm corner block this property only has 1 neighbour and access from 3 streets. The cottage has a real sense of charm about it with all the great qualities of the era including soaring ceiling heights, tongue and groove timber floors, and v-board walls.

It has three good-sized bedrooms two of which are huge. The long lounge/ dining area has corner windows and a real homely feel. The kitchen is workable but with a decent stove, bench, and cupboard space. The bathroom is old school but is inside, the water is hot and the pressure is good. The kitchen and bathroom would benefit from a makeover but it is not something that needs to be done urgently. There is the bonus of a huge rumpus/ play space at the rear of the house that you can imagine the kids would love. It may even be the space to set up a bit of a man cave.

This house is a good entry-level home and will appeal very much to first-home buyers. It has the potential to be a picturesque little Queenslander cottage. I can imagine a picket or woven wire fence and a cottage or tropical garden.
