The subject properties are former railway land located approximately 98 radial Kilometres north of Adelaide in the rural township of Port Wakefield. Port Wakefield is identified as the gateway to the Yorke Peninsula and Mid-North regions, making this the ideal location for a savvy Commercial Investor looking to acquire large sites to build or re-develop (Subject to Necessary consents). This rare land offering is of varying configurations and this parcel comprises several allotments totaling approximately 3.1 hectares (approximately 31,179 m²), is located on the northern fringe of the township which has numerous services that are serviced by a dual lane highway through the eastern edge of the town that is seen as a major transportation corridor for both commercial and domestic travellers. The Port Wakefield community is made of a mix of agriculture, fishing, retail and factory orientated employees. Zoned: Neighbourhood.
